[Mr. Joseph Vithayathil]

If from article 2 of the 1st schedule of the Limitation Act the words "under Section 32 of the Act" are taken away and if nothing is inserted in their place the period of six months prescribed in that article will apply to all suits for recovery of possession of immovable property even if such suits are based on title. But there is another article in the Limitation Act which prescribes a period of 12 years for suits for recovery of possession of immovable property. Article 2 evidently applies to summary suits and it has to be made clear that it applies only to such suits. Therefore it is necessary that the words "under Section 8 of the Travancore Specific Relief Act" should be inserted in Article 2 in the place of the words deleted from that article.

PRESIDENT: There seems to be a clerical mistake. It is intended to advert only to summary suits, whereas if the amendment is not accepted it will refer to all suits for recovery of possession of immovable property.
